

39R There Is a Book

1. There is a book, which all may read, which
2. The glor - ious sky, em - brac - ing all, is 3. The rag - ing sea, the roar - ing wind, your heaven - ly truth in - parts; and all the tools its like the Mak - er's love, en - com - pass - ing the bound - less power dis - play. But in the gent - ler read - ers need, broad minds and lov - ing hearts. The great and small, with - in and high a - bove. The breeze un - dimmed: your spir - it's free - ing way. To

Words: John Keble (1819), rev. REH & Jim Clark (2005) Music: KINGSFOLD (8.6.8.6.), Traditional English, arr. Ralph Vaughan Williams lives of proph - ets here be - low, and works of Christ all dew of heaven is like your grace, it steals in si - lence us you give sen - ses to doubt, and love this earth with 'round, are pa - ges in that book to show how down; But where it lights the fa - vored place, its care; Give us a heart to seek you out, and God is free - ly found. rich fruits spell re - nown. read you eve - ry - where.

