

67R O Thou Whose Power

1. O Thou whose power ^{er} mov - ing worlds pre - sides,
 2. 'Tis thine a - lone to calm the re - verent breast,
 a Tu nam - que se - re - num,

whose voice cre - a - ted, and whose wis - dom guides,
 with si - lent con - fi - dence and ho - ly rest,
 Tu re - qui - es tran - quil - la pi - is.

On the dim earth in pure ef - ful - gence shine, from thee, great God! we spring, to thee we tend,
 Te cer - ne re fi - nis,

and cheer the cloud - ed mind with light di - vine,
 Path, Mo - tive, Guide, O - rig - i - nal, and End!
 Prin - ci - pi - um, Vec - tor, - Dux,

and cheer the cloud - ed mind with light di - vine.
 Path, Mo - tive, Guide, O - rig - i - nal, and End!
 Se - mi - ta, Ter - mi - nus, I - dem.

Words: Boethius (6th Century), trans. Samuel Johnson (1750), rev. REH (2005)
 Music: OLD 124TH (10.10.10), Genevan Psalter (1551)

